POTTER, July 29.—We have been visited with three earthquakes, which caused some commotion throughout the county, yet the stages continue to carry passengers to and fro from the different resorts.

Upper Potter—Republican: J. M. Roberts, George Busch; Democrat: Robert Marders, James Eddie, Charles Whitaker.

Eugene Holbrook, who went to Thunder for rest, returned on Monday last looking hale and hearty, and recommends the boys to seek the same resort. He relates his story as follows: He and his companions spent many pleasant days hunting, fishing and resting, with not a cloud to disturb their peace, but on last Thursday morning about 2 oclock he began to waver in his views, when he heard a roaring sound, and the huge pine tree, which stood over his furbound tent, was whirling north and south, east and west, throwing debris in every direction. Trees were falling and the squirrels were shaken from their dens, fiercely barking and chattering; the birds were thrown from their perches, whistling and chirping. He then exclaimed:

O thou, who maketh the earth to quake,
Calm it with pure delight,
And let this weary trembling frame
Repose from its momentary fright.

Not satisfied with this they proceeded to what is known as the Sky ranch, as near the cabin there is a spring of which they intended to drink. Upon their arrival a roaring sound came like the rushing of mighty winds. The cabin creaked and rattled and one of his companions sprang from it with fright, thinking that there was some one in the house. They thought to encounter Tracey, the outlaw; however, the question was soon settled, it was another earthquake. Eugene is now very happy singing, Home, Sweet Home to his lovely little daughter of seven weeks' rearing.

John L. McNab and Maurice Hirsch of Ukiah came up to the residence of J. G. Busch Sunday last at an unexpected hour, as they wished to proceed to their newly purchased claim, which they have in shares with Mr. and Mrs. George Busch. They invited the hostess to accompany them. and Miss Belle Busch and Maurice Hirsch led the way, which wended eight miles out to the high hills. After leaving the stage road they had to encounter a narrow winding grade, attended somewhat with danger, although they made it with safety to the foot of a high mountain, where John Gavin's beautiful home is situated in a gulch.

They find on their possessions a lovely spring of crystal white cold water, noted by the name of Hale springs. This is sought after by papers and by hunters; also is noted for being beneficial to invalids. Soon after the noon hour they partook of a lovely repast, which they carried with them, with additional lemonade made of this soda water, which is said to be the best in the world. After eating and drinking to their hearts' content, they started home, arriving safely, much pleased with their possessions and long memory of the day spent.

Mrs. Chamberlain closed her school Tuesday last by giving her pupils a treat to cake, lemonade and candies; also dealing out such clothing as they required. They had recitations and singing. She was assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Rider and husband.

THE TRAGEDY AT THE GRAND

No New Developments in Last Week's Horror.

The Bodies Were Taken Sunday Last to San Francisco to Be Cremated.

Aside from the facts published in THE PRESS last week there are but few developments in the tragedy which occurred in the Grand hotel Friday afternoon last wherein Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Hunt met death, the former at the hands of the latter. Evidently the last letter written by the husband to his wife is the following, which was given to a reporter for this journal by Coroner Taylor. It reads as follows, but gives no clew to the tragedy:

COMPTCHE, July 24.

DEAR NELLIE: I just come here for the mail and found your letter and telegram. I have got to go back to camp and go to Mendocino tomorrow for repairs for our donkey engine. I will be in Ukiah Saturday night, or Sunday, without fail. Do not undertake the trip in here, as the roads are awful. That is a good place to stay, so wait until I come. With love

JERRY.

The above letter was postmarked "Comptche, July 25." The tragedy occurred on the same day the letter was posted in Comptche, and perhaps before Mrs. Hunt had received the letter.

THE PRIMARIES.

Republicans and Democrats Select Their Delegates.

The two political parties held primaries throughout the county Saturday last. Secretary Barker of the Republican county central committee has not yet received complete returns from the various precincts, so it is at the present time impossible to publish a complete list of the delegates who will constitute the convention to be held on the 9th inst in this city. Those elected in this city are:

Ukiah—J. W. Flaherty, D. E. Paxton, C. N. Underhill.

Ukiah No. 1—C. H. Kent, A. Brunner, J. R. Elder, W. I. Bailey, N. Evans, C. A. Aldrich.

Ukiah No. 2—W. D. White, F. Brunner, P. W. Handy, H. G. Wyckoff.

The Democrats held their primaries Saturday last and nominated the following candidates for the election to be held November 4: For state senator, J. B. Sanford; district attorney, Robert Duncan; sheriff, J. H. Smith; treasurer, D. M. Gibson; tax collector, E. R. Wright; recorder, P. Connolly; auditor, J. A. Jamison jr.; superintendent of schools, J. F. Barbee; assessor, M. A. Thomas; coroner and public administrator, John Taylor; surveyor, H. J. Randall; justice of the peace, D. C. Crockett; constable, T. S. Lynch; superior judge, J. Q. White.

The Matson Homicide.

District Attorney Poage, who was accompanied by Stenographer Tucker, went over to Westport Sunday to hold an inquest on the body of C. G. Matson, who was killed last week by C. A. Matson. According to the testimony adduced by the district attorney the deceased was lying in his bunk when attacked by C. A. Matson. C. A. Matson secured an ax from the woodpile, and entering the house in which the deceased was sleeping, cut off his leg. Within five minutes after C. G. Matson was assaulted and his leg cut off he died. While of the same name and same nationality—Russians Finns, the parties to the tragedy were not related. The alleged murderer was held over by the justice and was admitted to bail in the sum of $2000.

Joe Rudee, brother of I. Rudee of this city, has been up on a visit to relatives. He is an employe of the postoffice department of San Francisco.

The dance at Saratoga springs last Saturday night, while not very well attended, was thoroughly enjoyed.

'QUAKE IN SOUTHLAND

BUILDINGS PROSTRATED AND WINDOWS SHATTERED.

Oil and Water Pipes Bent and Twisted as if by Fire. Lompoc is Left Practically Witout Water Supply.—The Damage Very Heavy.

Santa Barbara, July 29.—The most severe earthquake ever experienced in Southern California did a great amount of damage in the northern part of Santa Barbara county Sunday night. The district affected extends from Lompoc to Santa Maria, the center of activity evidently having been near the latter place.

The first shock was felt a few minutes past 11 o'clock, vibrations continuing for several minutes. Shortly after there were fourteen distinct shocks, but none of them was as severe as the first. Nearly fifteen minutes elapsed between the first and final shocks. In the Careaga oil fields, which are operated by the Western Union Oil company, large fissures were cut in the earth. Two tanks containing 3000 barrels of oil each were dashed into splinters, the oil flooding the section. Nearly all of the surface pipe lines used for conveying oil and water several miles were twisted or broken in such a manner that renewal will be necessary. Strangely, none of the wells, which are down a distance of over 2000 feet, were affected. At Los Alamos adobe buildings were razed to the ground, while in tne business places windows were broken and goods on the shelves thrown to the floor. Lompoc, several miles to the southwest, shared badly. The city is practically without a water supply, as the mains were badly broken and the water has been flooding certain portions of the city.

The Santa Ynez river, which in the summer is usually a small stream, but in winter a torrent, was comparatively dry Sunday. Today water is rushing over the river bed as in a freshet. No one will attempt to explain this remarkable phenomenon, and the presence of such a large volume of water at this time of the year is considered part compensation for the great damage that has resulted in other ways.

Over 100 years ago the Franciscan fathers undertook to establish a mission at Lompoc. The large building was nearly completed after several years of hard work when an earthquake visited the district and utterly destroyed the edifice. Further attempts to build a structure at that point were abandoned. From several of the sparcely settled districts reports are received in this city that the damage done was very great to buildings of every description. Only a slight shock was felt in Santa Barbara. The Western Union telegraph wires between Santa Barbara and Los Angeles are down.

GRASS VALLEY LIKES DECISION.

Judge Morrow's Decision in Pennsylvania Mining Case Hailed with Joy.

Grass Valley, July 29.—Whistles are tooting wildly in nearly every mine in this district, bombs are bursting on the streets and firecrackers are popping like musketry, while groups of men are filling the streets shaking hands and congratulating each other over a decision rendered in the famous Pennsylvania-W. Y. O. D. mining suit.

The suit was commenced in March, both companies claiming a right to mine certain rich ground. The Pennsylvania also sued for $600,000 damages for ore alleged to have been removed from its ground by a rival company. Since a year ago the Pennsylvania has been closed down, laying off over seventy men, while but a small force has been working at the W. Y. O. D. since, throwing out of employment altogether over 150 men, much to the detriment of the city. By agreement the company receiving the decision is given the right to mine the disputed ground pending appeal. This means that the Pennsylvania will resume operations within thirty days, so the managers have stated. The Pennsylvania has been operated by the present company, nearly all local men, for thirteen years. It has paid $151,500 in dividends within thirty-nine months, and is looked upon as very rich. The W. Y. O. D. is owned by local people and San Francisco capitalists. Had the case gone against the Pennsylvania company it is said it would have invalidated the title to much rich mining property in this district, hence its popularity among the mine owners.

HE FEARED HE HAD LOST

When Wu Ting Fang, the famous Chinese Minister to Washington, irritable and somewhat forgetful from a severe cold, missed one day from the front of his cap the immense diamond he always wears there, he was dreadfully frightened. A friend pointed out that the statesman had inadvertently donned his turban wrong side before, and that the diamond was safe in the rear. Had Wu Ting Fang been wearing a Benson's Porous Plaster on his chest or back to cure his cold, he never would have doubted its location. He would have felt it doing its work,—warming and making flexible the torpid muscles, extracting the pain and soreness, promoting the free circulation of the blood, stimulating the skin and lungs to proper action, and so dissolving and banishing the malady. Thus we perceive, beloved friends, that while a pretty thing to look upon, was of no practical use. But Benson's Plasters are supremely useful. They relieve and cure gout, rheumatism, neuralgia, colds on the chest, lame back, etc., so quickly and completely as to make you wonder how it can be. Better now,—well to-morrow; that's the way they work. Get the genuine. All druggists, or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States on receipt of 25c. each.

The City bank shipment goes to Berlin and that of Freres to Paris.

Motive for the Murder Found.

Redding, July 29.—A clew has come out here which throws a strong side light upon the apparently unprovoked murder of Edward Lux at Klamathon by John McDonald after McDonald had killed Henry Hoover. John L. Sullivan, a waiter at the depot hotel here, recently left McDonald's employ and shows many letters from him. He declares that McDonald had repeatedly made threats against Lux, because he believed he was aiding McDonald's rival in the suit for the hand of a young woman.

THUNDER MOUNTAIN.

Some Necessary Expressions Which Should Be Learned by Tenderfeet.

George Hurd, who left last week for Thunder mountain, furnishes the following list of queer expressions that are used in the section of country wherein the present gold excitement is situated:

"To job," is a favorite expression for getting the better of a person in a deal or for playing a practical joke on him. If one is telling an extravagant story somebody is sure to ask, "What kind of a box of salve are you trying to open now?

A person who is always trying "to job" his fellows is said to be "peddling the bull." This expression originated with the cattle rangers who tried to dispose of fractious steers. And the "box of salve" was considered particularly apt for those who considered themselves "smooth."

The man going over the trail for the first time is frequently called a sheepherder by the old mountaineer. In fact, sheepherder has come to be a term of contempt for the reason that when a man has proved his utter unfitness for everything else in this country he tends sheep.

Then again if he is trying to tie a diamond hitch and finds his fingers all thumbs, the packer will call him an alfalfa shoveller, for the same reason that the people of the east call a clumsy man a farmer. The alfalfa shoveller is a very necessary man about a big hay ranch; but among packers and log drivers he is the butt for many jokes and jibes.

When the tenderfoot gets among real mining men and begins to learn how to swing a drill, some one is sure to tell him that he would do much better to be out "pitching a Camas hook." This refers to the people who work the Camas prairies in northern Idaho. Another similar term is palouser, which is the name given to the farming community living in Palouse county, in southeastern Washington. Coffee is called berry juice and whisky is commonly known as "fightin' stuff." When a man steps up to the bar, he never uses the term whisky. It is always "liquor" that he calls for. Beans, which are the staple food for those of the hills, have received the name Idaho strawberries.

The bread made in the mountains is a queer mixture of flour baking powder and water. This is baked in a skillet or frying pan before an open campfire and is generally flavored with a liberal quantity of smoke and ashes.

Often the fire is too hot and causes the bread to crust before the inside has been thoroughly "doned," leaving it a pasty mass. Such bread is called a "dough god," and the hungry prospector eats it in spite of its failing.

Then again the baker sometimes gets to much grease in his skillet and the bread will not hold together when baked. The result is known as shorts because it all falls to pieces. Good campfire bread is regularly called "bannock," a term generally used in the west. Everbody calls potatoes "spuds."

The invasion of the new gold fields has created an unusual demand for tough horses and as a result all sorts of animals have been pressed into service. Few of them attain the dignity of being called horses, as the general term applied to them is "cayuse," which means range stock that makes no pretense to being blooded.

The trip into the mountains is a very hard one and feed is scarce so that by the time a horse gets through with the expedition he resembles a rack of bones more than anything else. So the name of "buzzard-head" has been given to this type of animal.

The men who have taken part in the present stampede into Thunder mountain are a very cosmopolitan lot. There are old-time miners from Mexico and British Columbia. Many of the men are former soldiers who have seen service in Cuba and the Philippines, while some were present at the siege of Pekin.

Much of the lingo is a corruption of Spanish and Indian. For instance, one very seldom hears the word "understand." "Savey," deprived from the Spanish, is used almost exclusively.

"Tilikum," meaning friend or pal, has been taken from the Chinook Indians in Washington. "Siwash" meaning Indian or man and "Klootchman" meaning squaw or woman are also in general usage. A westerner not living in the city never speaks of feminine or womanly qualities, as such. He always characterizes them as "squaw."

As you plod along the trail you frequently hear a packer yell at his horses, "Klatawah, klatawah!" which translated means, "Get a move on you."

Oftentimes the man making his first trip into Thunder mountain is called a "musher," because he takes all kinds of cereal and mushy foods with him. This word has come down from Alaska. On the second trip he gets the name of "sourdough," usually because he has learned how to make bread and slapjacks without baking powder by substituting sour dough. After that he is called "Chechako," which is Indian for veteran or old timer.

The newcomers call Idaho the state of collossal liars and small matches, the first because the people here have vivid imaginations and the second because Chinese matches, better known as "heathens" are used exclusively. Both of these considerations require the newcomer to be on his guard to keep from getting burnt.

Resolutions of Respect.

To the officers and members of Anchor lodge, No. 75, D. of H., A. O. U. W.: Your committee appointed to draft resolutions of respect on the death of our sister, Marvina Hargis, beg leave to submit the following:

Whereas, Our kind heavenly Father hath seen fit to remove by divine providence our dear sister from our subordinate order of sisterhood to the grand lodge of eternity, where her soul is safely anchored in the sea of perfect love; and

Whereas, The golden thread of life so suddenly broken, just when its gleam seemed brightest, has been united with the sunlit woof thread of the angels; therefore, be it

Resolved, That her memory will live in the hearts of those she has left behind, and say not good night but in some fairer clime bid her good morning; and to her bereaved parents, sisters, brothers and friends we tender our sympathy to alleviate their sorrow, caused by the sudden death of our beloved and honored sister, over whose peaceful dust we mingle our tears.

Mourn not for her mid endless peace,
A home to her is given,
Where angels dwell and where joys ne'er cease,
The sweet, sweet home of heaven.

And, be it further

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon our minutes, and that they be published in our city papers, also a copy be sent to her parents. Committee,

THE SUNNY SOUTHLAND.

A Press Correspondent Writes From the Southern Orange Belt.

LOS ANGELES, July 30.—The southland is in the whirl of its mid-summer gaiety, beach and mountain resorts, the famous Catalina island and every camping ground being taxed to the limit with pleasure-seekers. But, of course, there are still the unfortunate many who have to remain in town, but the law of compensation has served to atone for that deprivation by providing a very cool summer, with the exception of a few days. Travel to the south in search of pleasure and recreation has become so extensive that new beach towns are springing up like mushrooms on this part of the southern coast.

Los Angeles is certainly enjoying an era of prosperity, which is evidenced by an increased population, which has so over-crowded the public schools that in some districts only halfday sessions have been possible; the up-building of the out-lying districts, the completion of several suburban belt lines to the different beaches and towns by the Pacific Electric Railway company, which is composed chiefly of H. E. Huntington and I. W. Hellman's millions—the latter, by the way, 'tis said, came to Los Angeles in the early days with a pack on his back; the improvement of realestate generally, which is attested to by the fact that City Assessor Ward has advanced the valuation in the city's realty $12,000,000.

The north, however, is not without its charms, which was fully impressed upon the writer's mind during a trip to the northward as far as your thriving city. Ukiah impresses one with the idea of great commercial activity, which is verified by the prosperous condition of the country surrounding.

The picturesque side it presents, also, is not lost, for there are the Indians. True, they are dirty and shiftless, treacherous (where the white man is concerned) and not overscrupulous as to honesty, but they are so identified with the early history of our country that they will ever remain an integral part of it. They have learned many of the ways of the paleface, and it was humorous to see their superstitions and aversions vanish at sight of a 50-cent piece.

The state asylum for the insane, three miles from your city, is a very worthy institution and a haven of refuge to the mentally afflicted, and its 478 male patients and 121 female abide in as sanitary and perfectly appointed a domicile as great care and labor can make it. Through the courtesy of Charles Wilson, assistant superintendent, the entire mechanism of the different departments was explained in a painstaking manner, the recently installed electric light plant being all that was required to complete the modern comforts of this great establishment. Under the efficient supervision of the chief steward, Edward Niles, the culinary department is a thing of beauty. Every feature of dining hall and kitchen is of spotless character, and prevading every nook and corner is that greatest of all essentials—cleanliness.

Politics down this way are livening up a bit, locally and otherwise. Gage is being strongly supported and bitterly opposed, but what man hath not his enemies, and, as The Herald says, "One good term deserves another." It is making a courageous fight on those lines. LA SENORA.

THE PYTHIAN ENCAMPMENT

Meeting Held Tuesday Evening to Ascertain Desires of Business Men.

A meeting of citizens was held in the city hall Tuesday evening last for the purpose of devising ways and means for inducing the California brigade of the uniform rank, Knights of Pythias, of this state to encamp in 1903 in this city. The encampment will be for ten days, and the minimum number of Pythians who will be present here is estimated at 900, although it is thought that at least 1500 will come. The committee appointed to solicit subscriptions, the aggregate amount of which is estimated to be $2000, are C. Hofman, I. Grover, J. W. Eversole, W. H. Miller, B. S. Hirsch and C. H. Kent. The money thus secured will be expended in the payment for lights, water, tables, and other necessary accessories, including, of course, comfort for the guests and general sanitary arrangements. The committee will of course see to it that provisions, and other necessary articles, will be purchased from local merchants. While the commercial side of the proposition has not, nor will it be considered, it is well to remark that the encampment here means the distribution of many dollars in the community. The business men of the city will be called upon during the week in order to ascertain whether or not they desire the encampment.

Ancnt the Fire Hose.

For some time whispering of dissolution of the Ukiah fire department, owing to the purchase of fire hose by the town trustees have been rife. The companies met in joint session Wednesday evening last. It is fortunate that no hasty steps were taken by the firemen, and it is to be hoped that the matter of purchasing hose will now be adjusted to the satisfaction of all concerned. The firemen have placed themselves on record as endorsing certain hose, and set forth their reasons why they recommend it.

It is evident that the recommendation of the department should be observed, for certainly they are better qualified to judge of the merits of hose than others not engaged in its use. It will be granted that the motives of the fire company are unselfish, and that no effort was made by the firemen to buldoze the town trustees. It is hoped that the latter will see the wisdom of encouraging the firemen in their efforts in behalf of the property interests of this city by adopting their suggestion as to the quality of the various hoses submitted.

There is nothing to be gained by causing friction between the firemen and the property holders of this city, and should the companies disband, it will be a serious matter to property holders of this city. Already it has come to the knowledge of the board of underwriters, representing all the insurance companies doing business in the state, that there is some trouble between the department and the town trustees, and in a telegram received by Mayor Pemberton yesterday, the president of the board of underwriters wires for information regarding the status of the matter, and whether the report that the firemen would not respond to an alarm of fire be true. It is reported on good authority that the board of underwriters have decided that if the department of this city disbands, insurance rates will at once be advanced 50 per cent. It is, therefore, to be hoped that the town trustees will act with the firemen. L. C.

ALL OVER THE HOUSE.

The Fad For Old Silver, Which Extends to Wedding Presents.

The fad for anything old is just now expressed chiefly by the fad for old silver. Every woman who prides herself upon being anything boasts of her collection of pieces of old English, French and, above all, Dutch silver. German silver, curiously enough, does not share this popularity. Of course, the charming thing is to have all your old silver your own—an ancestral legacy, that is—rather than a commercial article, bought and paid for. Few such legacies, however, amount to enough to equip the modern tea table. No matter how rich one's foremothers were in such things, by the time the silver was divided among the large families that were the rule in those days the individual inheritance dwindled to an insignificant amount. The old silver of most households today is theirs only by right of purchase. The wedding presents of a recent bride included no pieces of silver but the very old, which shows the extent of the craze as does nothing else. Time was when wedding presents must, above all else, be brand new. The newest form of woman's club entertainment consists in the members bringing pieces of their alleged old silver and having some lecturer, after telling them all about the subject in general, give the name and age of the individual pieces by deciphering the hieroglyphics upon their backs.

The "No Parlor" Idea.

A home in which the increasingly popular "no parlor" idea is exemplified was seen recently. It is an ordinary city house, one of a brownstone block, and has recently changed owners. The new chatelaine has turned the long heretofore parlor in the front of the house into the most delightful of living rooms. Low bookcases have been built around the sides, and all woodwork in the room is painted white. The walls are hung with a plain cartridge paper of just the proper tone of green to go with the plain green carpet of deep pile that suggests the moss of the forest, the two harmonizing with several pieces of furniture in the room upholstered in another tone of the same shade of green. The fireplace, pictures and a very few pieces of necessary bric-a-brac relieve the monotony, while taking nothing away from the restful influence of the apartment that is gained by the pervasive green. This color, as our psychic friends tell us, is pre-eminently the one with which emotional, high strung Americans should surround themselves.

Explosion of a Depew "Jolly."

Several months ago a constituent of Senator Depew came to him to seek his influence in getting an office.

"You write a letter telling what you want, and I will forward it with my indorsement," said the senator when he had heard the man's story.

Several weeks later the man met the senator in the capitol lobby.

"You remember telling me to write you a letter," he said.

"Oh, yes," was Mr. Depew's reply as he cordially grasped his visitor by the hand. "Let me see. You sent me the letter, didn't you, and, if I remember rightly, I indorsed it strongly."

"No," said the man. "I never wrote the letter. I've been sick."—Washington Letter.

Eloquence In Blank.

One of the humorous incidents of the recent French elections is the joke perpetrated by one of the candidates in Auvergne, who was opposing the sitting member. He had distributed thousands of copies of a blank pamphlet bearing the title "Speeches by M. Chose In the Chamber of Deputies of 1898-1902." As a rule deputies' speeches are used against them by their opponents, but in the present instance the member for Auvergne never once opened his mouth during the whole session. His parliamentary eloquence was therefore represented by a dozen pages of blank paper.

A Tribute to the Drowned.

It would be difficult to conceive a more touching and beautiful ceremony than that of the children of Gloucester throwing a bouquet into the sea for each sailor who left that port the past year and has not returned. Where are the poets' flights of fancy now?—Boston Herald.

During the hot spell of Thursday afternoon of last week an Italian working in the woods at Elk became prostrate from the intense heat, his death following in a few hours. He had been in this country only a short time and leaves a wife and children in Italy.—Advocate.

Hunters should note the fact that the law prevents any one from killing more than three bucks during the season. The season commences today.

A PET SHOEBILL STORK.

In the grounds of the sirdar's palace at Khartum there is now a gigantic pet bird, originally described as an abnormally large pelican without a pouch. This is a shoebill stork which was shot in the wing by a sportsman last summer about a hundred miles above Khartum. As the bird was unable to fly, it was captured without difficulty and now stalks about the grounds with the dignity befitting a bird which when adult stands five feet high and has a monstrous bill, which has been compared to a whale's head, a boat turned upside down and a shoe. Only two specimens have been brought alive to England. These were sold to the Zoological society in 1860 by Consul Petherick, who after several failures to keep young birds taken from the nest hatched out some eggs under hens, though only two reached London, and these did not live long in confinement.—Westminster Gazette.

Wall Paper From Old Shoes.

Old shoes are not waste from the standpoint of modern industry. After they have done their service and are discarded by the first wearers a secondhand dealer restores the worn shoes to something like their former appearance, and they are sold again, to be worn a little by the poorer classes.

When the shoes are finally discarded by them, they are still good for various purposes. In France such shoes are bought up in quantities by rag dealers and sold to factories, where the shoes are first taken apart and submitted to long processes, which turn them into paste, from which the material is transformed into an imitation leather, appearing very much like the finest morocco. Upon this material stylish designs are stamped, and wall papers, trunk coverings and similar articles are manufactured from it.—London Answers.

The Sun Spots Coming Back.

Evidences of the gradual revival of solar activity, as manifested by the presence of dark spots on the face of the sun, are becoming more numerous and conclusive. It is considered certain that the sun has now passed the minimum of the spot period, and during the present year many spots may be seen. The increase of a sun spot period is more rapid than its subsequent decline. The minimum just passed has been somewhat long drawn out, and the return of the spots has been awaited for a year. In March the first spots bearing all the traits of those that belong to a new period were seen in the sun's northern hemisphere in latitude 25 degrees. It is characteristic of a new period that its first spots appear far north or south of the equator, while at the end of a period they are near the equator.—Youth's Companion.

A Well Marked Man.

"Uncle Jim" Wilkinson of Vinita, I. T., has been United States deputy marshal there for thirty-two years and a terror to outlaws and desperadoes all through his service. Thirteen bullet scars and a jagged mark on one of his ankles, where a Comanche arrow lodged, show that at times he has led a strenuous life. It is a common saying that Judge Parker of Fort Smith and Jim Wilkinson are the two men who made living possible in the territory in old days. Deputy Wilkinson is an Englishman by birth.

A Beautiful Bull.

Dr. O'Hague, health officer of Minneapolis, when recently in Philadelphia at a gathering of medical men became engaged in a discussion of the dangers resulting from impure drinking water.

"Why," he said, "the typhoid bacilli call for the most diligent attention if the health of a community is to be conserved. They are so small, gentlemen, that a handful of them could be placed on the point of a needle!"—Philadelphia Times.

There often comes a time in the struggle with pulmonary disease when the victim loses heart and gives up hope. The ambition to be up and around gives way before growing weakness, and the sufferer keeps to the bed.

No one who suffers from lung disease should lose heart or give up hope while there is a possibility of cure. In many cases Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has cured lung "trouble" when the cough was obstinate and deep seated, with hemorrhage, emaciation, night-sweats and general weakness. A great many men and women are living to-day in the full enjoyment of health and happiness who had been "given up" by doctors, but found a perfect and permanent cure in the use of "Golden Medical Discovery."

"My wife had hemorrhage of the lungs," writes W. A. Sanders, of Hern, Mason Co., W.Va. "She had ten hemorrhages, and the people all around here said she would never be well again. But she began to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and she soon began to gain strength and flesh. After taking ten bottles she was entirely well. Should you think this would do you any good to publish, just use it, and if any one disputes the merits of this almost omnipotent medicine they may enclose self-addressed envelope with stamp, and I will answer, the same as written in this letter."

CYCLONE SINKS SHIPS

TERRIFIC WINDS ON GULF OF CALIFORNIA.

Many Vessels Are Driven Ashore at Guaymas and Mazatlan and Five Passengers on One Steamer Are Lost.—Many Buildings Wrecked.

Tucson, A. T., July 29.—Reports have just reached here of a disastrous cyclone last Thursday at Guaymas Mazatlan and other cities on the Gulf of California. A large steamer was sunk in the bay at Mazatlan and three freighting vessels were dashed ashore in the bay at Guaymas. Buildings in both cities were wrecked, others were unroofed, trees were uprooted and verywhere devastation was left.

Severe storms have been raging in the state of Sonora for a week past and on Thursday evening at both Guaymas and Mazatlan the air became close and the clouds hung low. A hurricane of great force struck Mazatlan about 6 o'clock and the Romero Rubio, a large ocean-going passenger steamer at anchor in the harbor, dragged her anchor and was dashed to pieces between two piers. The crew and some of the passengers escaped death by clinging to wreckage and drifting ashore, but five passengers are known to have been lost and several are missing. The Limatour, another freight and passenger steamer, was struck by the cyclone and suffered considerable damage. After the storm the passengers on this vessel were brought ashore in small boats. Fihing craft at anchor in th harbor were washed ashore and dashed to pieces on the rocks.

At Guaymas four large vessels and numerous smaller craft were sunk. The El Luella, a railroad transport, the La Lorenta, the El Sol and the El Gravina, all coastwise freight boats were struck by the cyclone which came up the harbor about 8 o'clock Thursday evening. At this port the cyclone was more severe than at any other place. The building occupied by the harbor master and customhouse authorities were totally destroyefild and all of the warehouses along the bay were unroofed or otherwise damaged by the cyclone. The new city hall, in process of construction, was badly injured, and the municipal prison was wrecked so that the prioners had to be placed under a guard of soldiers. A ball given at one of the principal halls was broken up and a number of guests were injured by the falling walls. The houses all along one street were completely wrecked. The high wind blew throughout the night and people fled panic-stricken to places of safety.

Relieved His System.

Bishop Williams of Connecticut used to tell the following story of the late Dr. Ducachet: "One Sunday morning Dr. Ducachet arose feeling wretched. After a futile attempt to eat breakfast he called an old favorite colored servant to him and said, 'Sam, go around and tell Simmons (the sexton) to post a notice on the church door saying I am too ill to preach today.' 'Now, massa,' said Sam, 'don't you gib up dat way. Just gib him a trial. You get 'long all right.' The argument went on and resulted in the minister starting off. Service over, he returned to his house looking much brighter. 'How you feel, massa?' said Sam as he opened the door. 'Better; much better, Sam. I am glad I took your advice.' 'I knew it. I knew it,' said the darky, grinning until every tooth was in evidence. 'I knew you feel better when you git dat sermon out o' your system.'"—New York Tribune.

Freak Whiskers.

Judson Clayton, proprietor of the Lady Washington inn at Huntington Valley, Pa., has a small marble statue of General George Washington on the lawn adjoining his house that requires constant barbering to keep it from raising a beard and mustache. Periodically a growth of moss makes its appearance on the upper lip, chin and cheeks of the stone figure, and if left untouched for any length of time it develops into a close cropped beard and mustache, giving to the image of the Father of His Country an extremely dandified appearance. If the moss is not interfered with, it will grow to a point resembling the approved cut that barbers give to the beards of men of fashion. Every few months the action of the weather causes the face of the marble statue to become coated with the velvety moss, and a shave is in order. The freak whiskers have made the statue quite a curiosity in the vicinity.

Cannibal Plants.

Some interesting particulars appear in Chambers' Journal concerning cannibal plants and flowers and especially the species recently discovered by Dunstan on the shores of Lake Nicaragua. As this naturalist was walking with his dog he was attracted by its cries of pain and terror and, hastening to the rescue, found the animal held by three black sticky bands, which had chafed the skin to bleeding. These bands were the branches of a newly found carnivorous plant, which has been named by Dunstan the land octopus. The branches are described as being flexible, polished black, without leaves, secreting a viscid fluid and furnished with a great number of suckers by which they attach themselves to their victims. This uncanny product of the vegetable kingdom is known to the natives as "the devil's noose."

A Cinematograph Puzzle.

In cinematograph pictures of racing motor cars the wheels at certain points have been shown turning backward. To explain this singular effect M. Lumiere states that when a new film is exposed at the moment when each spoke in turn reaches a given point the wheel will appear stationary, the successive views being exactly alike. But if the films are traveling quicker than the spokes each spoke is photographed before it reaches the position of exposure of the spoke in front of it, giving the wheel the appearance of revolving backward.

A DARK, MUDDY COMPLEXION Does not become neat woman. Lane's Tea will cure constipation, clear up the skin, sharpen the appetite, and make you look and feel like a new person. It acts gently upon the stomach, liver and bowels. For sale by all dealers.

A Profitable Customer.

One day while Mark Twain was connected with a publishing house he went into a bookstore and, picking up a volume, asked the price. He then suggested that as a publisher he was entitled to 50 per cent discount. To this the clerk assented.

As I am also an author," said Mark, "it would appear that I am again entitled to 50 per cent discount."

Again the clerk bowed.

"And, as a personal friend of the proprietor," he modestly continued, "I presume that you will allow me the usual 25 per cent discount."

Another bow from the salesman.

"Well," drawled the unblushing humorist, "under these conditions I think I may as well take the book. What's the tax?"

The clerk took out his pencil and figured industriously. Then he said with the greatest obsequiousness:

"As near as I can calculate, we owe you the book and about 37½ cents. Call again."—Youth's Companion.

Physician and Patient.

"Electricity in the atmosphere affects your system," said the scientific physician.

"Yes," said the patient who had paid $10 for two visits, "I agree with you. There are times when one feels overcharged."—Milwaukee Journal.
